

Experience

San Jose State University – Adjunct Professor (Human Factors Engineering)

July 2012-Present

Introduced and teach 2 new graduate level classes in Human Computer Interaction Design. Advising 8 Master's Degree culminating project per semester. Guest speaker in many classes and student events.

rCDO UX Consulting – Chief Design Officer (rCDOUX.com for more info)

July 2012-Present

rCDO UX is a consulting practice that provides UX Strategy and Product Design services to companies ranging in size from Fortune 500 to startups. It mentors CEO's, CPO's, Development VP's and UX leaders/teams on how to optimize the alignment of the their UX investment with their companies business plan in order to rapidly deliver highly competitive user experience in both B2B and B2C applications across the Web and Mobile platforms. Current and previous clients include companies involved in Cloud, Big Data, Enterprise, Analytics and Medical Applications.

Consulted on 5 medical products. 2 cancer treatment products, 2 diabetes products (one each for T1D and T2D) and one cardiology product.

On the advisory boards of 2 medical and 4 enterprise startups.

SAP Labs – SVP, Head of Global User Experience

2005-2012

Leadership of the SAP global UX organization distributed across Germany, Israel, India, Bulgaria, Canada, China, France, and California. The team scope included responsibility for UI standards, usability measurement/methodologies and detailed UX design specifications for traditional enterprise applications, new cloud applications, social integration, mobile products, business analytics, eCommerce extensions and digital support/service experience. Personally responsible for defining the corporate user experience strategy spanning several delivery platforms and go to market approaches for large, medium and small enterprise deployments. Hands on, creatively active as the UX art director in addition to designing a gamification approach for enterprise products. Frequent corporate representation and activities with customers, press and analysts.

Oracle – VP R&D Usability/UI Design

1994-2005

Managed global UX team responsible for interaction design, corporate look and feel standards and usability evaluation for all Oracle product lines, ranging from database and development tools to interactive media servers, the (not so successful) network computer, video on demand service and enterprise applications for ERP and CRM. Started Oracle's user experience program in 1994 from scratch and grew it into one of the premier corporate UX teams in the world. Served as UI architect for the corporation from 1994 to 2000 while concurrently managing the department. Supervised Oracle technical transition from character mode to Windows then later to Java and finally to the web with HTML UI's. Represented Oracle with numerous customers, conferences, acquisitions and the federal government regarding first generation accessibility standards.

Borland – UX Architect & UI Team Manager

1991-1994

UX leader for Borland's products such as QuattroPro, Paradox, dBASE for Windows and Borland C++. Manager of the corporate user interface design group. Responsibilities included new product definition, UI design specification and usability testing. Also responsible for legal aspects of UI design and representing Borland at major trade shows, conferences and press reviews.

Ashton-Tate – UI Designer & UI Team Manager

1988-1991

Lead UI designer for both Windows and DOS graphics and word processor applications. Managed small corporate UI design team. Interface with outside vendors on UI issues so their subsystems would have a consistent UI with the main AT product lines. Coded expert system for automated graphics layout later deployed in Borland QuattroPro for Windows.

Eastman Kodak – Senior Designer

1983-1988

Established and developed methodology for UX rapid prototyping laboratory. Lead designer of corporate "common user interface" architecture to replace microfilm with workstation based optical disk technology. Technical program board member at the Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corporation (MCC) human computer interaction program in Austin, Texas. Lead UI designer for Kodak-McDonnell Douglas joint venture to develop integrated engineering information management system on top of the UniGraphics CAD product. Usability engineering and design of both hardware and software user interfaces for consumer products, photocopiers and medical products.

Essex Corporation – Research Scientist

1981-1983

Designed office productivity simulation software that integrated human performance data with conventional mechanical reliability data for Xerox Corporation. Designed both hardware and software user interfaces for photocopiers and fax machines.

Education

Tufts University – BS & MS in Engineering Design

Tau Beta Pi honor society

Certified Ergonomist, Certified UX professional (Cert. #1225, Sept. 2003 to date)

Additional coursework in architecture, industrial design and sculpture

Patents

US patent 5,059,960 - Flat panel display design (both hardware and software) for photocopier user interface. Work formed the basis for an entire generation of Kodak copier user interfaces.

US patent 5499366 - Expert system for automated graphic design, page layout and charting. Work done at Ashton-Tate and Borland, code shipped with Quattro Pro for Windows.

US design patent D409173 – Use of tabbed style property sheets in dialog boxes for GUI.

Awards

Lifetime Practice Award - ACM SigCHI 2019

Deflorenz Prize in Human Engineering, Tufts University College of Engineering

UX Professional Activity

UC Irvine MSID Advisory board member

Editor ACM Interactions Forum: The Business of UX (2014 - to date)

Blogger – ACM Interactions Magazine on-line edition (2014 - to date)

Board member Interaction Design Foundation, nonprofit for design education (2011- to date)

Founding Editorial advisory board member ACM Networker Magazine (1997-2007)

ACM Member, SigCHI and BayChi Membership (1985 - to date)

Community Activity

Past board president of the California Coast Music Camp

Eagle Crest Studio – music CD production for nonprofits

Skills & Expertise

Global User Experience, UX Leadership, UX Strategy, Design management, Design Thinking, Usability measurement, Program management, Project management, Interaction design, Visual design, User research methods, Product definition, Gamification, Accessibility, Enterprise Software, Consumer software, Mobile design, Cloud product design, HTML5, Analytics
